NASHVILLE

Nashville is growing at a remarkable pace, with professional sports teams, a bustling downtown, a world-class symphony hall, the Country Music Hall of Fame, the enormous new convention center, and nationally acclaimed restaurants. Nashville enjoys a stellar reputation as one of the best places to live in the United States.

THE DIOCESE OF NASHVILLE

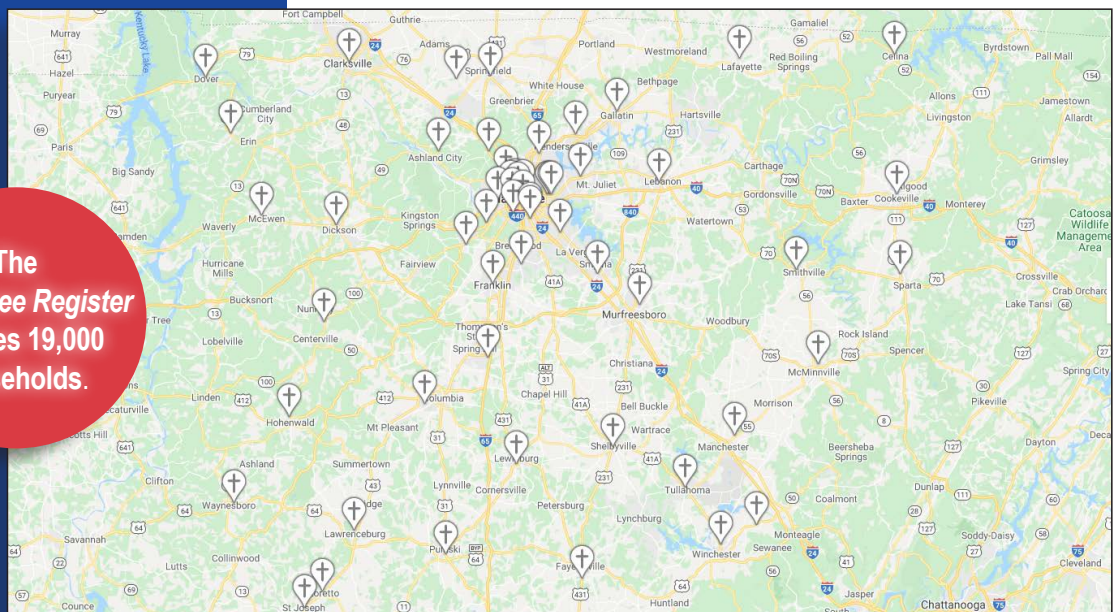

The Diocese of Nashville was founded in 1837, with a sparse Catholic population and no official parishes. There are now 53 parishes, 3 missions and 20 schools in the Diocese of Nashville, which comprises 38 counties in Middle Tennessee spread over 16,300 square miles. With about 100,000 Catholics, the Nashville diocese is thriving as more people continue to move to the area. All are served by the diocesan newspaper, the Tennessee Register.

OUR READERS

The Tennessee Register reaches 19,000 households twice a month. We also send the eRegister, a daily Monday through Saturday electronic news bulletin with breaking news, between printed issues. We keep stories current on at www.tennesseeregister.com.

THE TENNESSEE REGISTER

Founded in 1937 as “the voice of Tennessee Catholic Life,” the Tennessee Register serves the growing Catholic community by providing them with vital international, national, regional and local news, feature writing and editorial commentary relating to all things Catholic. It is the primary means of communication between the diocese and the Catholic faithful of Middle Tennessee.

AWARDS

The Tennessee Register has received many awards for reporting including the award for General Excellence in its circulation category from the Catholic Press Association. Our staff has won many individual first place awards for their outstanding work. The Tennessee Register is one of the best and most decorated diocesan Catholic newspapers in the country.

Diocese buys 'piece of heaven' for new parish in Nolensville

ANDY TELLI

Responding to the tremendous growth in eastern Williamson County and northwestern Rutherford County, the Diocese of Nashville has purchased a 160-acre site in Nolichucky that will be used to grow grapes, and eventually more vineyards, and to build a new parish and school. Dean Gordon, Vice President of the Diocese, and Vice Chancellor of the diocese, said of the property: There does not seem to be in the future a middle school and high school, which is why we bought it," he said.

He went on to say that in the future, the diocese could even put out the facilities on the site to serve the Catholic community in the area, which would be a very positive thing, he said.

The diocese plans to use the purchase of the property, which is located on Nolichucky road, near exit 205 of Nolichucky parkway and three miles north of I-40, in July 2012.

The price for the land, which has been used as a horse farm, was $2 million, of which $1.2 million was provided by two anonymous donors.

Cooper said, "We feel the property has very good value at the sale price of $4.2 million." Cooper said, "and with the gift of $3.2 million it's truly a gift of the Holy Spirit to the diocese from the people of the Diocese."

A team from Holy Family Parish in Brentwood worked with a team from the Diocese of Nashville to find and purchase a 166-acre property that will serve as the site of a new parish with room for an elementary, middle and high school at 7666 Nolensville Road in Nolensville. They are pictured here on-site Thursday, Feb. 13, 2014. From left: Rev. William W. Gorman, pastor of Holy Family; Rev. Thomas J. McManus, pastor of St. Ignace; Rev. William W. Miracle for Mikey: Dickson boy's cure opens door to K of C founder's beatification
Mikey Schachle, 5 years old, climbs onto a stump in the yard of his family's home in Dickson, Tennessee. He carefully takes stock of the short distance to the trampoline buried in the ground below him, then slowly steps off the stump into space and falls happily onto the trampoline as some of his 12 brothers and sisters surround him with smiles and hugs.
